McEVY AND HAYNE.

Some of the Results of Hitchcock's
Deadly Work Coming Home
Like Chickens and Curses.

A. D. McEvoy, special agent of the Dole Government of Hawaii, has been in this city for several weeks, quietly keeping his eye on alleged filibusters. Mr. McEvoy has always refused to be interviewed, but this morning he decided to make reply to what he terms "a United Press canard, published at the instigation of Julien D. Hayne, the Hawaiian editor, now in Chicago."

Hayne gave national prominence to the interview. He spoke of Theodore Davies and attacked Dole, and Mr. McEvoy has been tempted to tell a few things he alleges that he knows concerning young Davies, his father, the guardian of the Princess, and Kaiulani herself.

"Theodore Davies," says McEvoy, "desires to have his son wed the Princess. He has social ambitions, this man Davies, and his son wants to get into society. Davies thinks if he can patch up a match between the Princess and his son, the young man will have entree to the best clubs in London, 'As little Prince, having so great a title to be more Prince'—Is not that the way Shakespeare puts it?"

"I have been for months in the employ of the Hawaiian Secret Service. Julien Hayne, I know, went East for the purpose of injuring the republic. He made a number of misstatements to the Chicago press representatives and the United Press correspondents published them in good faith, no doubt.

"I have only been away from the islands a comparatively short time, and when I left there the financial standing of the Government was good. Hawaiian bonds were meeting with a ready sale in London. The Dole Government has always managed to pay its bills and meet the demands of its employees, so it must have money.

"Theodore Davies would like to have his son marry the Princess Kaiulani. For that reason he would like to overthrow the Government and place the exiled Queen back on the throne. Then Davies would be king and pose as one of the nobility.

"Hayne spoke of expenses incurred by the Dole Government. Why, George Macfarlane, during the reign Queen, went to England and negotiated a loan of $1,000,000, which was squandered by the monarchy.

"When the Dole Government took hold it had to build roads, sink artesian wells and make other improvements.

"Thurston is not dissatisfied with the Government. He is a strong supporter of the present Administration."

Mr. McEvoy then said something about filibusters. He says that moneyed men are behind the schemers to seize Hawaii, but he denies that any expeditions have been fitted out.

"I am here to find out about these matters, and I ought to know," he added.

Mr. McEvoy considers the prospect of Japan securing a foothold in the islands as good. The Japanese were given the right to vote six months ago, and if England does not grab Hawaii or the United States annex the islands, Japan is likely to secure control down there.

"I recall an incident which occurred some years ago," said the speaker. "It was an occasion of a conference which Fujii, acting Japanese Consul, attended. The Consul gave me to understand that in case England did not seize Hawaii, Japan eventually would."—S. F. Bulletin, Oct. 10.

"CREOLE" is the gamest, fastest and best bred stallion that has ever been imported into the Hawaiian Islands. ("Creole by Prompter out of Grace by Buccaneer shows that he is capable of getting a mark of 2:10, and is one of the gamest stallions seen this year, and besides being game, is one of the best formed and remarkably intelligent."—Breeder and Sportsman, Sept. 25, 1894.) He is 15½ hands high and of powerful build throughout. His color is glossy black with one white hind foot. His disposition is all that could be desired and his action superb.
